ANNEXURE IV TO THE DIRECTOR'S REPORT
REPORT ON MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSIONS AND ANALYSIS

• MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The Indian economy in FY 2023-24 has shown resilience despite global challenges, with particular emphasis on the oil and agro-industries. Here's an overview with respect to these sectors:

1. Macroeconomic Overview

GDP Growth:

India's GDP growth remained robust, with estimates ranging around 6-7%. This growth has been driven by a recovery in consumption, increased government spending, and a revival in industrial activities.

Inflation:

Inflationary pressures have persisted, primarily due to rising commodity prices, including crude oil. However, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has managed inflation through monetary tightening, with repo rate hikes aiming to control price levels.

Currency Fluctuations:

The Indian Rupee experienced fluctuations against the US Dollar, influenced by global economic uncertainties, rising interest rates in the US, and the impact of oil prices on the trade deficit.

2. Impact on the Oil Industry

Crude Oil Prices and Imports:

India, being heavily dependent on crude oil imports, faced challenges due to volatility in global oil prices. The fluctuating prices impacted the cost of production and transportation, affecting the overall economy.

Domestic Oil Production:

Efforts to increase domestic oil production were made through policy reforms and incentives. However, production levels remained below the growing demand, keeping the dependence on imports high.

Renewable Energy Shift:

The government continued to push for renewable energy alternatives, with investments in biofuels and solar energy. This shift is part of India's long-term strategy to reduce dependence on fossil fuels and improve energy security.

3. Impact on Agro-Industry

Agricultural Output:

The agriculture sector saw stable growth, supported by favorable monsoon conditions and government initiatives like the PM-KISAN scheme, which provided direct income support to farmers. The sector remains a significant contributor to the economy, employing a large portion of the population.

Rural Demand:

Rural demand, closely tied to agricultural income, showed signs of recovery. This was reflected in the increased sales of consumer goods, fertilizers, and agrochemicals, which are crucial for crop production.

Agri-Exports:

India continued to be a major exporter of agricultural products, with significant exports of rice, wheat, spices, and other commodities. The government's focus on boosting exports through improved infrastructure and logistics has started to show results.

Challenges in the Agro-Industry:

The sector faced challenges such as rising input costs, particularly for fertilizers and pesticides, due to global supply chain disruptions. Additionally, smallholder farmers continued to struggle with issues related to market access and price volatility.

4. Government Policies and Reforms

Atmanirbhar Bharat Initiative:

Under the Atmanirbhar Bharat (Self-Reliant India) initiative, the government promoted domestic manufacturing and reduced import dependence. In the agro sector, this included promoting indigenous seed production, farm mechanization, and agro-processing.

Incentives for Agro-Industries:

The government introduced several incentives for the agro-industries, including subsidies for irrigation, credit facilities for farmers, and support for value-added agriculture.

Focus on Sustainable Agriculture:

There was a growing emphasis on sustainable agricultural practices, including organic farming and water conservation techniques. The government launched several schemes to promote the use of micro-irrigation and reduce the carbon footprint of farming activities.

5. Outlook for FY 24-25

Oil Industry:

The oil sector is expected to continue facing challenges due to global price volatility and the transition towards renewable energy. However, government policies aimed at boosting domestic production and exploring alternative energy sources will likely mitigate some risks.

Agro-Industry:

The agro-industry is poised for steady growth, supported by continued government support, technological advancements, and an improving rural economy. Challenges such as climate change, input costs, and market access need to be addressed to sustain this growth.

IV. INDUSTRY OVERVIEW:

1. Strengths

Strong Agricultural Base:

Maharashtra has a robust agricultural sector, with significant production of pulses like tur (pigeon pea), chana (gram), and urad (black gram). The state's diverse agro-climatic conditions support the cultivation of a variety of pulses.

Large Consumer Base:

India, with its large population, has a high and steady demand for pulses and edible oils. Maharashtra, being one of the most populous states, represents a significant market for these products.

Established Processing Industry:

Maharashtra has well-established processing units for pulses and edible oils, including modern mills and refineries. The state is a major producer of besan (gram flour) and has numerous small to large-scale processing units.

Government Support:

The Indian government, along with the Maharashtra state government, provides various subsidies, minimum support prices (MSP), and other incentives to support farmers and the agro-processing industry.

2. Weaknesses

Dependence on Monsoons:

A significant portion of agriculture in Maharashtra is rain-fed, making it vulnerable to fluctuations in monsoon rains. Inconsistent rainfall can lead to lower yields and reduced availability of raw materials for processing.

Infrastructure Gaps:

Despite improvements, there are still gaps in rural infrastructure, including storage facilities, transportation, and supply chain logistics. These gaps can lead to post-harvest losses and inefficiencies in the distribution of pulses and oils.

Fragmented Market:

The industry is highly fragmented, with many small and unorganized players. This fragmentation can lead to inefficiencies, lack of standardization, and challenges in scaling up operations.

Low Awareness of Quality Standards:

There is often a lack of awareness about quality standards among both producers and consumers. This can affect the marketability of products, especially in international markets where quality standards are stringent.

3. Opportunities

Rising Health Awareness:

Increasing awareness of health and nutrition is driving demand for pulses and edible oils that are rich in protein and healthy fats. Products like atta (whole wheat flour) and cold-pressed oils are gaining popularity among health-conscious consumers.

Export Potential:

There is significant potential for exporting processed pulses and edible oils, especially to countries with large Indian diaspora populations. Maharashtra, with its proximity to major ports like Mumbai, is well-positioned to take advantage of this opportunity.

Value-Added Products:

There is growing demand for value-added products such as packaged atta, ready-to-cook dal, organic besan, and fortified edible oils. Investing in product innovation and branding can help capture a larger market share.

Government Initiatives:

Initiatives like Pradhan Mantri Kisan Sampada Yojana (PMKSY) and the National Food Security Mission (NFSM) provide opportunities for businesses to invest in food processing and agro-infrastructure development.

Price Volatility:

The industry is exposed to significant price volatility, particularly in the case of edible oils, where global commodity prices can impact domestic prices. Fluctuating prices of raw materials like oilseeds can also affect profitability.

Competition from Imports:

The Indian market, including Maharashtra, faces competition from imported pulses and edible oils, particularly palm oil, which is cheaper and more readily available. This can put pressure on domestic producers and processors.

Regulatory Challenges:

Frequent changes in government policies, such as import-export regulations, MSP adjustments, and food safety standards, can create an uncertain business environment. This uncertainty can affect planning and investment decisions in the industry.

- Internal control systems and their adequacy

The Company has adequate internal control systems with appropriate controls and checks. Effective measures are taken to ensure that all assets of the Company are protected and all transactions are recorded in conformity with accepted accounting principles. As stated in the report of the board, it is implementation of systems, particularly cost control measures that has resulted in the increased profitability. The internal audit department regularly conducts review of the financial and operating controls in all areas of the Company's operations including transaction checks and significant issues, if any, are brought to the attention of the audit committee.

- Material developments in Human Resources/Industrial Relations Front including number of people employed.

The Company continues to focus on its core values of quality, integrity, leadership, and respect for people. Relations between the Company and the employees continue to be cordial at all locations.

- Cautionary Statement
